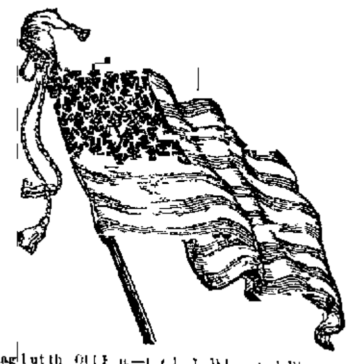
OFFICIAL PAPER OF THIS CITY



No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue
With the stars [illegible]
Arise and [illegible]
Whose [illegible]

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 18, 1862

We regret to see in the columns of the Statesman personal attacks upon one of our most estimable citizens—one that has given proof of his loyalty in many ways in the past few months in which our Government has been engaged in suppressing a gigantic rebellion. In this crisis no man has spoken out more boldly and fearlessly in opposition to this wicked and unholy rebellion. We feel it to be our duty and that of all patriotic men to sustain such a man from unjust aspersions come from whatever quarter they may. We repeat, that we deeply regret that the Statesman should use its columns to traduce one of our most useful and able men. If this system is kept up, we can anticipate only the most evil results. We therefore enjoin our friends of the Statesman to bear and forbear, and settle your personal dislikes with friend Pearne, if you have such, in a way not to injure a good cause. Let us march shoulder to shoulder with all good Union men in support of the Government irrespective of former party differences, or personal feeling. Let us forget the past in a holy love of country, the Union, the Constitution, the Government and our sacred altars.

The following communication for our paper was written by a life long democrat:

"To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The last Statesman announces the fact that it has gone into its twelfth volume, and that it has avoided and shall avoid all praise of persons. This much may be adduced from a perusal of its columns: it is not its province to build up, but to tear down. Its great efforts for the last eleven years have been to blacken and destroy the character of some of our best men, and not satisfied with their downfall, vulture-like, it has preyed upon the carcases so long as any putridity remained. It lives on spoils and discord! If it cannot find enemies outside of its own party on which to wreak its anger and spit its venom it goes about seeking whom it may destroy of its co-laborers, as witness its attack on the editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate, which from all that can be gathered is, that the editor of the Statesman has been led from some erroneous information or from some jealousy of his to believe that Mr Pearne wishes to be Congressman or United States Senator. This has been enough to cause him to commence a tirade of abuse against a man whose Union sentiments are above suspicion; who sustains the Government as a citizen and who believes as a christian that it is a sacred duty incumbent upon him to uphold it in the hour of peril. This man's motives are questioned, his character traduced, and every little item that appears in the columns of the "Advocate"—as a notice of the progress or business of our city—is to be turned into burlesque and ridicule, is to be pointed at its editor because he might in the imagination of Mr Bush wish to be [illegible] a politician. The only wonder is that a man so prompt to tear down all with which he comes in contact is a Union man. He more properly belongs to Secessia. They are the ones who are determined to destroy the sacred Constitution of our Country and everything else that interposes between them and their ambition, and on the old maxim that "Birds of a feather flock together," we would be sure to find Mr Bush the leader of the peace howlers of Oregon at this time, had it not been for his quarrel with Lane. It was at the last hour that he came out for non intervention, not willingly, but because his private quarrels forced him to be a Union man not from choice but from necessity. Now that he is in the Union ranks every man must bow the knee to him or perish. The tyrant! like Nero of old sitting Rome on fire, he would set the Union party in a blaze and laugh at its destruction if any person but himself or his proteges is to be benefited by it.

UNION.

Items

An application was made to the French Institute for the election of Lieut. Maury as a corresponding member of the Institution. The committee reported unanimously that his reputation was the worst of writers who knew nothing of the subjects they discussed.

The rebel story that 150,000 stand of arms had been received in New Orleans proves to amount to about this—that 150 flint lock muskets had been received there.

Gov. Pickens, in a message to the South Carolina Legislature, said "the Government of the North is hopelessly gone. There is not the slightest danger that we can be subjugated by the North."

The Secesh papers say that Illinois has declared against the Government. Will they give the reason why Illinois has more soldiers in the field, compared to her population, than any other State in the Union.

A despatch from San Francisco says: "The departure of the Steamer Sierra Nevada for Cariboo, is postponed till Saturday. She did go to Cariboo, but few of her passengers would be induced to [illegible]

Will he (Seward) [illegible] the marrying and [illegible] of the Africans and the Caucasians? Will he [illegible] all this?

These [illegible] two [illegible] in the [illegible]. [illegible] that the Administration [illegible] entertaining [illegible] purpose through the [illegible]

[illegible]

the slave [illegible] masters and mistresses and [illegible]

We read that the Corvallis Union, which [illegible] Mr State [illegible] gave us an interesting editorial article on the subject of what he [illegible] of slavery in the South. He [illegible] which he [illegible] that where there were [illegible] the [illegible] and the [illegible] they would finally [illegible] race [illegible] hardly [illegible] either. He said that this had [illegible] been the [illegible] in all countries, and [illegible] would [illegible] exception [illegible] general rule. Mr State promised to [illegible] much [illegible] this subject, but we suppose he found that he was touching a tender spot with his political friends and suddenly cut off his work in this behalf—much to our regret. We have no doubt that he was fully posted in regard to the effects of slavery in this particular, and that his honest opinion, based upon facts he had gathered, would be interesting to all who desire to fairly investigate these matters.

We trust that if [illegible] emancipation [illegible] place the Africans will be sent out of the country, and to a region where the civilization, education and christianity with which our secession friends, occasionally, say they are imbued may be of service to them.

We think if the slaves were made free, there would be less amalgamation than there is under the slave system. We believe all are aware that the whitening process is enterprisingly going on in the South, and that there are multitudes of mulattoes there who boast possessing some of the best blood of the country. These mulattoes sometimes make intelligent men—some how or other they obtain some education either in consequence of their own natural shrewdness or the kindness of their white parents. This result is owing, in some measure to the fact that the white master controls his slave woman and she is compelled to submit to his embraces, though she loathes and detests them. If she were free she would command her own person and her natural sense of modesty and decency would protect her purity. Hence we believe that there would be less amalgamation if the slaves were free, than there is under the despotism and brutality of the slave power.

We have not the late census for 1860. We wish we had. We want to present some items in regard to the process of amalgamation in South Carolina and its results. It is often the case that when white men become the parents of mulatto children [illegible] likely boys or girls they make them free. But if [illegible] with [illegible] affection they sell them or [illegible] them with their slaves of a dark skin. Likely mulatto girls often bring large prices in the market for [illegible]. South Carolina statistics in 1850 show a total population of [illegible] 4,888 [illegible] mulattoes (that [illegible] mixed with negro blood) 4,[illegible]72. There were at the same time [illegible]488 black slaves and [illegible] mulatto slaves. In Virginia, the mother of States and Presidents, the statistics are equally instructive. There the free mulattoes, who generally [illegible] numbered [illegible] free blacks [illegible]. In the same exemplary State there were at the same date 428,229 black slaves and 44,240 partly white slaves (say half white). These were the statistics twelve years ago in these two States. We presume the process of amalgamation has been continued in these States—though we have not, as we before said, the census of 1860 to give the exact facts.

From all which we judge that the process of amalgamation, [illegible] which the Statesman has such a horror—[illegible] which we utterly condemn—is already practiced largely in the South—not being confined to these exemplary States we have named. We have given our reasons for the belief that this process would not be increased if the colored woman was in a situation to protect her rights and her virtue. We [illegible] —that the Government [illegible] where the [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] which separates the white race from the black.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.—A man named M[illegible] was accidentally shot in the arm at Va[illegible] over on Saturday evening. The wound was [illegible]

"Murder Will Out."

Nothing since the loyal citizens of Oregon were shocked with the publication in the late Oregon Democrat of a poem, written with great care, approving of the rebellion, speaking of the Federal troops as the enemy, rejoicing at their defeat at Bull's Run and [illegible] Davis and Beauregard and the glory [illegible]

The question then seemed to be in every body's mouth—who is the author of this treasonable article? It was a matter of no surprise that the Democrat should publish it—for that paper was known to be the organ of secession. The authorship was charged to different individuals, and that wrongfully. The truth has now, however, come out, and the guilty writer stands before the people of Oregon. We now present the facts and evidence furnished us in this case.

McMinnville, March 6th, 1862.

EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:—Believing that every traitor or rebel sympathiser in arraying the [illegible] will have just [illegible] as they can suffer under, I have thought it but just [illegible] public [illegible] should know [illegible] It is the same old [illegible] that last September made an abortive effort to silence that venerable old hero of the South and [illegible] Rev. Neil Johnson by preferring what the C. P. Presbytery declares is a false and malicious charge [illegible] slanders against the people of the South during the present crisis and directly against the Confederate States; and has declined to fraternize or cooperate with him as a minister of the same church because he openly sympathises with the South in their present Glorious struggle for liberty." Yours as ever,

H. D. MARTIN.

McMinnville, March 6th, 1862.

The undersigned hereby certifies that during the fore part of November last I entered my usual place of labor [illegible] and heard the Rev. J. A. Cornwall reading to a couple of his friends what appeared to be the [illegible] four verses of some manuscript poetry. And upon the publication of those verses headed "Battle of Manassas" in the Oregon Democrat of November 4th, 1861, I recognised distinctly a part of the language in the last four verses, the number of lines to the verses being the same, and I am confident and firmly believe that the manuscript I heard read and the one in the Democrat are identical and the same.

Small Pox Hospital.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Of the many ills that flesh is heir to, none are so much dreaded as that of small pox. A few cases of a mild type of varioloid have already occurred in our midst, and for a time frightened our people. By the papers we learn that the small pox is existing at the present time in San Francisco to no inconsiderable extent. This Spring and Summer will bring to our city thousands of persons from California who will pass through San Francisco en route for the new El Dorado, and by their *fomites, this dreaded disease may obtain a foothold. If such a direful calamity should befall us the prospects of our city's expected growth and commercial importance would be seriously retarded if not utterly destroyed.

We would suggest that the Honorable City Council should establish a Small Pox Hospital outside of the city limits, and by ordinance require the removal of every case of this disease to the institution.

A procedure like the above would go far to prevent the occurrence of an epidemic of small pox in our midst. This [illegible] we may awaken to the necessity when it is too late. Shall we take counsel from the adage that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure?"

Our County Hospital is situated in the heart of the populous portion of the city, which has prevented and will prevent us from receiving any contagious diseases, consequently I have thought it proper to bring this matter before the public.

A. M. LORYEA, M. D.

Rich Correspondence.

The iron gunboat Essex was the one that at the battle of Fort Henry, after firing a long [illegible] knocking the guns of the rebels out of position [illegible] a shot into her own boiler. Her commander was Commodore Porter. A curious correspondence has lately been published. The Essex ran within near Columbus and with a flag of truce sent ashore the following letter:

"Come out here you cowardly rebels and show your gunboats.
PORTER."

To this Miller replied:

MARINE HEADQUARTERS,
Columbus, Ky., Jan. 1[illegible], 1862.

Commander Porter, of United States Gunboat Essex: Sir—The iron clad steamer Grampus will meet the Essex at any point and time your honor may appoint, and show you that the power is in our hands. An early reply will be agreeable to Your obt. servt,

MARSH. J. MILLER,
Capt. Commanding C. S. S. Grampus.

A few days later Porter sent his reply as follows:

UNITED STATES GUNBOAT ESSEX,
Wm. D. Porter, Commanding,
FORT JEFFERSON, Saturday, Jan 18, 1862.

To the Traitor Marsh Miller, commanding [illegible] called the Grampus: Commander Porter has already thrashed your gun[illegible] [illegible] the Essex [illegible]

PORTER.

A letter from Kansas [illegible] of this city says that great excitement exists there in regard to the Salmon River Mines and that there will be a great overland emigration this spring.

DIGGINGS ON JOHN DAY'S RIVER.—We have conversed with one of the men who belonged to the John Day's river mining company, [illegible] members of which were recently killed by the Indians. He states that he recently came [illegible] with three other members of the company that they were engaged in digging at the head of John Day's river. The company found gold in paying quantities. Our informant intends to return as soon as a company sufficient to protect themselves from the Indians can be raised. The prospects on John Day's river are good enough for him, and his opinion is that the diggings are sufficiently extensive to give employment to a large number of miners.

The diggings are something over 200 miles from the Dalles. Probably by new routes this distance could be very much shortened. They are the nearest gold diggings to this valley.

In answer to the question "Can you go from the diggings on John Day's river to Powder river?" the reply was that he had never gone so, but he believed it was entirely practicable.

It would seem to us that miners who are not bound to go to Salmon, would do well to go to the diggings on John Day's river, and if they should not find remarkably paying diggings there they could continue on to Powder river. We have an abiding conviction that paying diggings will be found on both these rivers, unsurpassed by the important fact that miners can work in them all winter.

FRUIT BUDS KILLED.—David Newsom writes to the Christian Advocate that the fruit buds of many varieties of Apples have been killed by the extensive cold of the past winter.

Dr. Hall's Balsam.—Every intelligent man or woman who is suffering from CONSUMPTION or any disease of the Throat or Lungs and wishes to find the best remedy will be amply repaid for examining the certificates and statements of esteemed citizens attesting the efficacy of DR. HALL'S BALSAM, a remedy which has the sanction of scientific men.

How to go to the Mines.—Miners who now purpose going to Salmon River, Rhodes Creek and the other mines [illegible] should start out prepared to travel through a cold and starved out country, for it is known by all who have come from above the Cascades that the country is now bare of all kinds of provisions, its supplies having been cut off by the long stoppage of navigation. Therefore we would say to all who wish to go through comfortably and return with their pockets full of Rocks, to call into HARKER BROTHERS, opposite the Upper Wharf, and supply themselves with Flour, Bacon, Beans, [illegible], Blankets, Clothing, Butter and Nailed Boots, and all other articles needed for mining purposes before they embark for the Land of Promise.

The Daily Oregonian.

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City

THE DAILY OREGONIAN [illegible] Book Store [illegible]

To Miners and Others.—The Superintendent of Indian Affairs Mr Rector has appointed Mr J M Kirkpatrick a Special Indian Agent, who will leave this morning for the Dalles There he intends to procure the aid of a party of Klamath Indians—who are familiar with the language—and send them out to get together all the chiefs of the Snake tribe, that being done Mr Rector accompanied by Col Cornelius with a company of Oregon Cavalry, will proceed to the spot and try and make a treaty with them Mr Kirkpatrick is of the opinion that the recent murders were committed by the John Day river Indians; and he has full powers to investigate and arrest, by military authority if necessary, any of the parties guilty, and bring them to a speedy justice He also warns miners and others who intend going to the northern mines that for the sake of future peace they should be very careful in their intercourse and dealings with all friendly and peaceable Indians, and abstain from all actions which might awaken hostile feelings From his long residence in this country and thorough knowledge of Indian character Mr Kirkpatrick is well fitted for the position, and will no doubt be a successful Agent

Circuit Court—Seventh Day.—J P Dennison and James Bothwell were arrested and brought before the Court on an indictment found by the Grand Jury charging them with setting up gambling devices in this city The Court fixed their bail at $2 000 each

State of Oregon vs Adam Lind—indictment for selling liquor to Indians Trial set for this morning

H M Knighton vs I Hunt [illegible] to recover $85 and interest on a note alleged to have been lost Defendant pleads payment to Miles It appearing in evidence that the transaction grew out of a bet, the plaintiff was non-suited

Theatrical.—The Willamette was filled again last night to see the play of "Love's Sacrifice." Mrs Forbes Margaret Elmore was splendid—she is perfectly at home in any character she undertakes to sustain Mr. Beatty is a clever and pleasant young actor, and he played Mathew Elmore in a very creditable manner

"Ingomar the Barbarian" will be played to-night. Mrs Forbes and Mr Beatty will take the leading characters, as usual Miss Lawrence is winning hosts of admirers by her captivating singing She sings again to-night.

Small Pox Hospital.—We commend to the notice of our city authorities the communication of Dr Loryea, recommending the city authority to provide a hospital for cases of small pox should any occur in our city

We desire, also, to make an additional suggestion,—that the city authorities make provisions by ordinance for vaccination with kine pock matter of every man, woman and child of those subject to the infection of small pox. If a physician is employed to do all this work, he can do it at a very reasonable cost, and our citizens can thus be protected against that terrible disease—the small pox.

Sport for the "Boys."—The Ferry landing was quite a scene of amusement to the boys yesterday afternoon, while witnessing the pranks of a fractious horse, while bogged in the mud with a load of hay but the most interesting part of the scene was at the time the railing around the platform of the Metropolis gave way from the pressure of the crowd leaning against it precipitating a half dozen or so down in the soft mud

For John Day and Powder River Mines.—We understand that a party is fitting out in this city for the purpose of visiting the John Day and Powder River Mines, with the intention of thoroughly exploring and prospecting them. Each one of the company is to have two horses and be well armed Sailed.—Several boat loads of Miners well supplied with provisions and other necessary articles with sails spread and colors flying, gently sailed down the river yesterday bound for the Salmon River Success to them, we say.

Capture of Two More Convicts.—The Cowlitz last night brought up two escaped convicts, by the name of Indian Charly and Williams, sentenced from Marion county

Fine Coaches.—We notice three new fine coaches down on Couch & Flanders wharf They arrived on the Brother Jonathan and belong to Mr. George I Thomas who intends to put them on the portage route between the Dalles and the Des Chutes, for the accommodation of passengers

We call attention to the advertisement of Messrs McNamara & McGowan proprietors of the California Restaurant at the Dalles. From the long experience these gentlemen have in that line of business there is no doubt the travelling public will be much pleased should they give them a call

At No 2's House.—We dropped in at the house of Multnomah No 2 last night as per invitation, and found a large party of ladies and gentlemen enjoying a lively "hop." The members of that fire company are celebrated for their politeness and kind treatment to guests

Turners' Ball.—The Turn Vereins gave a nice ball last night Quite an assembly of ladies and gentlemen were present and general enjoyment and good feeling seemed to be the feature of the evening

Private Dance.—A private party was had at the hall of the Hibernians last night

Not Arrived.—The steamer Julia had not arrived from the Cascades at 12 last night

Out of Work in War-Time.

"It is no use, Maria I've tried everywhere"

"But you are not going to give it up?"

"Give up? How can I help it? Within four days I have been to every book bindery in the city, and not a bit of work can I get"

"But have you tried anything else"

"What else can I try?"

"Why, anything you can do"

"Yes I have tried other things I have been to more than a dozen of my friends and offered to help them if they would hire me"

"And what did you offer to do for them?"

"I offered post their accounts make out bills, or attend the counter"

Mrs Stanwood smiled as her husband thus spoke

"What makes you smile?" he asked

"To think you should have imagined that you would find work in such a place But how is Mark Leeds?"

"He is worse off than I am"

"How so?"

"He has nothing to eat"

A shudder crept over the wife's frame now

"Why do you tremble wife?"

"Because when we shall have eaten our breakfast to morrow we shall then have nothing"

"What?" cried he half starting from his chair "Do you mean that?"

"I do"

"But our flour?"

"I baked the last this afternoon"

"But we have pork"

"You ate the last this noon"

"Then we must starve" groaned the stricken man, starting across the room

Peter Stanwood was a book binder by trade, and he had now been out of employment over a month He was one of those who generally calculated to keep about square with the world and who considered themselves fortunate if they keep out of debt He was now thirty years of age, and had three children to provide for, besides himself and wife, and this, together with the house rent was a heavy draft upon his purse even when work was plenty, but now there was nothing

"Maria," said he gazing his wife in the face, "we must starve I have not a single penny in the world"

"But do not despair, Peter Try again to morrow for work You may find something to do Anything that is honest is honorable And should you earn but a shilling a day we should not starve"

"But our house rent?"

"Trust me for that The landlord shall not turn us out If you will engage to get something to do, I will see that we have our house room"

"I'll make one more trial," uttered Peter despairingly

"But then you must go prepared to do anything"

"Anything reasonable, Maria"

"What do you call reasonable?"

The wife felt inclined to smile, but the matter was too serious for that and a cloud passed over her face She knew her husband's disposition and she felt sure he would find no work She knew he would look for some kind of work that would not lower him in the social scale, as he had once expressed it However, she knew it would be of no use to speak to him now, and she let the matter pass

On the following morning the last morsel of food was put upon the table Stanwood could hardly realize that he was penniless and without food For years he had been gay, thoughtless, and fortunate making the most of the present, forgetting the past, and leaving the future to take care of itself Yet the truth was naked and clear and when he left the house he said 'something must be done

No sooner had the husband gone out than Mrs Stanwood put on her bonnet and shawl Her eldest child was a girl seven years old, and her youngest four She asked her next door neighbor to take care of her children till noon The children were known to be good and quiet, and they were taken cheerfully Then Mrs Stanwood locked the house and went away She returned at noon bringing some dinner to her children and again started away She came home in the evening before her husband, carrying a heavy basket upon her arms

"Well, Peter," she asked after her husband had entered, and sat down, "what luck have you had to day?"

"Nothing! nothing!" he groaned "I made out to get dinner from an old friend, but I could find no work"

"And where have you looked?"

"Oh, everywhere I have been to a hundred places, but it is the same in every place It's nothing but one eternal 'No—no' I'm sick and tired of it"

"I even went so far as to offer to tend a liquor store down town"

The wife smiled

"Now what shall we do?" uttered Peter spasmodically

"Why, we will eat supper first, and then talk the matter over"

"Supper! have you got any?"

"Plenty of it"

"But you told me you had none"

"Neither had we this morning, but I've been after work to day and found some"

"You! been after work?" uttered the husband in surprise

"Yes"

"But how—where—what?"

"Why, first I went to Mrs Snow's I knew her girl was sick, and I hoped she might have work to be done I went to her and told her my story and she set me at work at once, doing her washing She gave me food to bring home to my children, and paid me three shillings when I got through"

"What—you been out washing for our butcher's wife?" said Peter looking very much surprised

"Of course I have, and have earned thereby enough to keep us in food through to morrow at any rate, so to morrow you can come home to dinner"

(Concluded to-morrow.)

Union State Convention.

The qualified voters of the State of Oregon who are in favor of the suppression of the present wicked rebellion, and a vigorous prosecution of war [illegible] trate the [illegible] to any peace other than the honorable [illegible] when rebels and their sympathizers submit to the constitutionally elected and qualified authorities, and the duly enacted laws of the Government—who think more of country than of party prejudice [illegible] who are in favor of supporting the general government in its endeavors to defend the Constitution, execute the laws, and preserve the Union [illegible] election of a ticket [illegible] election, without reference to [illegible] are requested to meet at the [illegible] precincts in the [illegible] the 22d day of March, A. To the Republicans of Oregon.

The undersigned were instructed at the last State Convention to Convene the Republicans of the State in their next meeting at Eugene City.

Events that have transpired since the meeting of the last State Convention could not then be foreseen, and issues are now presented to the people, paramount to all issues that heretofore divided political parties.

While we claim no right to dissolve the Republican organization, nor do we see any cause to recant any political principle heretofore held by us, yet believing that the vital issue, now before the people is the preservation or destruction of our institutions, we are unwilling to do anything to distract the Union sentiment in the coming canvass, and therefore have deemed it unwise to call a party convention with a view to the support of a distinctively Republican ticket.

In taking this course, we have been guided by the expressed wishes of Republicans throughout the State, and an honest desire on our part, to avoid any barrier to the hearty support of a Union ticket by the loyal support of the State without regard to former political differences.

History verifies the fact that the Fathers of our common country, supposed that they had cemented a perpetual Union; they are only traitors who have now attempted to overthrow it; we therefore call upon one and all to the support of the priceless inheritance bequeathed to us by the founders of this Republic. He that neglects, for any trivial cause at this time, to testify his devotion to our country, to a government that has made us the most prosperous and favored people on the face of the Globe, is not worthy the name of American citizen. We therefore trust to the intelligence and patriotism of the loyal people of this State, to show by unanimity at the coming convention and election, their abhorrence of secession and treason, their love of country, its prosperity and perpetuity.

We therefore earnestly recommend to the Republican voters of the State, that without regard to party, they should in the coming canvass, heartily unite in nominating and supporting a ticket composed of Union men who stand the test embraced in the call which is herewith published.

H. W. CORBETT,
E. D. SHATTUCK,
W. C. JOHNSON,
Republican State Central Committee.
